HEALTH NOT ALARMING.

BUTTE, Mont., Oct. 12.—Dr. Billings, the specialist of Chicago, who arrived today to consult with the local physicians regarding the illness of John D. Ryan, managing director of the Amalgamated Company, announced this evening that the patient's condition was not such as to cause alarm. Mr. Ryan is improving slowly and while his condition is serious, it is believed he will rally. Dr. Billings will leave for Chicago tomorrow.

CRUISERS TO MEET IN PACIFIC.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—The cruisers Colorado and Maryland today went to the Mare Island navy yard to coal, preparatory to sailing for Santa Barbara in a few days. They will be joined at that port by Rear Admiral Dayton's flagship, the West Virginia and the cruiser Pennsylvania. All then, will proceed to Magdalena Bay, where Rear Admiral Swinburne's squadron is now engaged in target practice.

SEARCH TREASURES

Syndicate Will Raise Sunken Vessels.

WERE DESTROYED AT NAVARINS

To Raise Turko-Egyptian Fleet Sunk Eighty Years Ago by England, France and Russia Off Greek Government's Territories.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—A romantic search for treasure and specie, valued at nearly a million sterling, is about to be made by a private London syndicate, which proposes to save the fleet sunk in the battle of Navarino. A concession from the Greek government has been obtained by this syndicate, which is registered as "The Navarino and General Salvage Company, Limited." The positions of most of the 62 submerged vessels have already been located and active operations are to be started shortly. For 80 years the ships of the Turko-Egyptian fleet sunk by the allied naval forces of England, France and Russia have lain undisturbed at the bottom of the bay, but now a determined attempt is to be made to refloat them. It is proposed to raise the vessels bodily, and to recover the valuable copper and oak of which they were built, and the treasure, guns and other articles known to have been on board them.

The ships sunk within the harbor are stated in the official dispatches of Admiral Sir Edward Cordington, the commander in chief of the allied fleets, to have been: Two ships of the line, three double frigates, 10 frigates, 22 corvettes, 19 brigs, one schooner, five fire-brigs; total, 62.

The promoters regard it as beyond question that the Turko-Egyptian ships carried a very large quantity of treasure, consisting of loot taken by raiding the coast towns of the Morea, and specie estimated at 736,000 pounds, for the payment of the crews and the numerous troops upon the war vessels. This sum includes treasure carried for the Sultan of Kurkey and Ibrahim Pasha. It is estimated that the total value of the ships and treasure is $7,500,000.

A study of the records show that the greater part of this fortune was carried upon the flagships, and as two large vessels, believed to be the ships of the Turkish and Egyptian admirals, have been located, the prospects for the recovery of the treasure are regarded as hopeful.

On all the Turkish and on many of the Egyptian vessels were bronze cannon, worth from 100 to 300 pounds each. According to Admiral Cordington's dispatches, there were 1700 guns in all upon the sunken vessels.

A grandson of Admiral Cordington is deeply interested in the romantic quest, and has furnished the promoters with rare books, prints and private papers to help them in their search.

SAVED BY CAT'S CRY.

Pastor's Family Nearly Asphyxiated by Malicious Enemy.

READING, Oct. 12.—A crying baby probably saved the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Chamberlain and family. Mrs. Chamberlain was aroused by the faint cry of their infant, but could not get out of bed with difficulty. She seemed to be stupefied and found the house full of gas. She dragged herself to a window and the fresh air revived her. Then she awakened her husband and the others in the house. Investigation showed that seven gas jets in upstairs and downstairs rooms had been opened.

Mr. Chamberlain is pastor of Never-sink Mission and he believes that some one who objects to his outspoken method of preaching tried to asphyxiate himself and family. The motive was not robbery, as jewelry and cash were not disturbed.

The Place To Dine.

Where shall we dine? There should be no question about that. If you have no appetite, but feel that you should dine, drop into the Palace and, if you meet Arthur Smith, ask him to prescribe for you. He'll do it, by laying something tempting before you, and while he does not wish to interfere with physicians, prescribing for dyspepsia, he is in the business to cater to men's stomachs. Try him once and then you will always dine at the Palace.
